

KNOWLEDGE - An Israel engaged Jew will know:	ATTITUDES -An Israel engaged Jew will believe:	BEHAVIORS - An Israel engaged Jew will:
The significance of Eretz Yisrael in Jewish history and thought Foundational and complex	Israel is a complex reality and can only be understood through an on-going appreciation of its nuances and dynamic relationship with a dynamic, changing Jewish reality as a whole. Want to be connected, worth the effort to delve deeper	Participate in and initiate conversations about Israel. Meaningful conversation is multivocal, lively, and bigger than oneself.
Historical understanding of the creation of modern Zionism, the establishment of the State, and significant events in Israel's history until the present. Locate oneself in multiple narratives	Israel is an integral and vital component of being Jewish; a concept that must be cultivated in the present and preserved for the future. Want to be connected, worth the effort to be a participant and not a bystander	Read and/or follow news about Israel to at least the same degree s/he reads/follows life outside their personal and professional lives. Making Israel a meaningful part of how one views the world.
Israel more deeply through the lens of a specific area of personal interest. Intense and nuanced	The concept of homeland is relevant enough to the extent s/he might have imagined at least once his/her life in Israel. What does it mean to visit?	Learn (informally or formally) about Israel throughout his/her life. Lifelong learning as important value concept.
Hebrew to the extent that s/he can conduct a basic conversation and be able to understand the gist of classical texts, and documents in Modern Hebrew. Personal access to cultural metaphors.	Hebrew language carries the cultural codes of modern Israel and greater Hebrew fluency leads to deeper understanding of Israel. What is needed to learn more Hebrew.	Travel to Israel throughout one's life. Israel has to be experienced; what feeds the travel cycle at home.
		Incorporate Israeli art and culture into their lives. Thinking about art and its power to challenge and inspire.

- As you look at your professional role, which aspects of this vision can you most directly influence through institutional and communal programming? Circle those boxes.
- Looking at 2-3 boxes that you can influence, brainstorm a list of ideas that would programmatically fit that part of the vision.
- Look at your list and answer the following questions:
 - Is this suitable for short-term success?

- b. Is this more suitable for long-term, sustainable, culture/community changing planning?
- c. Which ideas are best done in collaboration through the community of practice?
